

A fun day at the Serbithang dog pound- January 18, 2009

(Report of the day on which Nopkin.com members went to Serbithang to help build the dog sheds)

Text and photos by: Tandin Pem (Observer)

As Dennox proposed some of the Nopkin members and non-members met at the Zangdo Pelri parking. I won't mention the time because I was late. By the time I reached the parking everyone else were waiting for me and my friends (the movie Gajini kept me awake the previous night).

From there we travelled to Serbithang to contribute labour for the construction of the new dog pound. Right after reaching there without wasting much time we were at work.

We were 11 of us. Each of us carried three half-full-sacks of sand and reached it nearer to the construction.

That is Dennox again carrying his second half-full-sack of sand and following him is another guy (sorry don't even know his name). And the lady is tchhodentobden taking a breath.

After carrying of the sand was done, we moved to carry stones.

All of us lined up and passed stones of different sizes to one another from right to left. Ata Karma the loader, Luzee the she-man, Charms, Dennox, Hope, Kuenza, Wesel, tchhodentobden, Dennox's handsome brother and Charo (I didn't know his name so I addressed him as Charo). It didn't feel like work. All of us enjoyed every bit of it. 5457 was on his way when we were having fun.

After the loading and unloading of the stones our hands had become very rough but our hearts were very light. My friend insisted that she wanted to take a picture of how it looked like. By then 5457 reached the spot with some refreshments so it was break time.

After the refreshment we were back to work. While we were working and a group of people came there to feed the dogs.

It was disheartening to see that for a bucket of food a lot of dogs rushed for it. The bigger dogs got their fill while others were left hungry.

After the work was done we decided to take a group picture. All of us were satisfied with the work we did and posed for the group photo. Then we came down to the botanical park for lunch.

After lunch we returned to our own houses. That night I had a very good sleep.
